

California Supreme Court Historical Society Presents:

PEREZ V. SHARP: A California Landmark Case that Overturned a Century-Old Ban on Interracial Marriage

Join us for an engaging presentation on the 1948 case, Perez v. Sharp, where the California Supreme Court found unconstitutional the state's laws prohibiting inter-racial marriage. This program sketches briefly the history of racial discrimination in California and elsewhere, then turns its focus to how marriage illuminated a path for later, important civil rights cases. This has significant current professional and practical content.

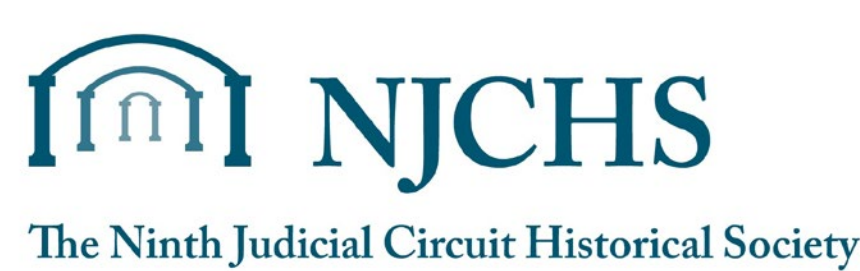

Speakers:

Introduction by Justice Joshua P. Groban, California Supreme Court
Narrated by Justice Teri Jackson, California Court of Appeal, and John Caragozian
Additional remarks by Roland Brandel and Michael Traynor
